Repz

Repz is a simple application, supporting both a web and a desktop version. It allows users to look for food recipes also create their own recipes. The main goal of this project is to help users save time on wondering for cooking ideas and provide them with the recipe for the desired meal. The motivation behind this project is my own observations on how much time I waste every day thinking about what I want to cook, then searching the internet for a recipe. Another practical scenario is saving some successful recipes in some type of journal. Repz can provide the functionality needed to achieve this.dc
